AIRE Personal Essay

(Select 1 of the 2 essay prompts below and submit it with your AIRE Packet.)

PROMPT # 1: Describe a topic, idea, or concept you find so engaging that it makes you lose all track of time. Why does it captivate you? What or who do you turn to when you want to learn more?

This is one of the Common App's brand-new additions for the 2017-18 application cycle, and I cannot contain my nerdy excitement, especially since this prompt was built to highlight a student's inner nerd. 😊

College, one could argue, is largely about the pursuit of knowledge, so you can imagine it would be quite appealing for an admissions officer to have a meter for your level of self-motivated learning, along with a better understanding of how and why you choose to pay attention to the things that intrigue you. This is a full-on peek into your brain: how you process information, how you seek out new sources of content and inspiration. How resourceful are you when your curiosity is piqued to the fullest? The answer to this prompt should also reveal something to admissions about the breadth or depth of your interests. For example, if you're interested in studying astrophysics, you might choose to discuss a concept that shows how far your exploration of the sciences truly reaches. How consumed are you by this passion you are choosing to pursue academically?

Some key questions to consider:

- What floats your boat? Do you have an appetite for knowledge about something specific? Or as I've asked in the breakdown for Prompt #2: What do you love, and why do you love it?
- What lengths have you gone to in order to acquire new information about or experiences related to a topic of interest?
- How do you typically seek to enrich your knowledge when something appeals to you? Do you have a favorite corner or the library (or internet)? A mentor who is open to answering your burning questions?
- What about the process of learning, especially about subjects that call out to you, is satisfying?

And a few examples to get those wheels turning:

- Did the idea of open source code inspire you to create a tech startup with a few of your friends? What projects do you work on, and why is the idea of sharing information still so revolutionary?

- Did getting an internship at an accounting firm inspire you to start each day by checking the markets? Do you participate in a mock trading club that allows you to use the expertise you gather from culling through economic news and analysis online and beyond?
- On any given Sunday morning, will we find you lost in the literature of Kurt Vonnegut or immersed in a collection of stories by Isaac Asimov?
- Have you taught yourself to master the compositions of Mozart and Beethoven and break down the songs of Bruno Mars by ear in your spare time?
- Do you have an obsession with pizza so intense it led you to study bread-making and keep a pizza journal that documents the 700+ slices you've consumed thus far? (We know someone who did this—really.) How is pizza-making more scientific and/or artistic than the average person realizes?

Whatever you're into, embrace it. Show your feathers. Let your unique flag fly (within reason, obvs). This prompt is about the pursuit of knowledge and your desire to proactively challenge yourself. Whether you are devouring the classics on your Kindle or nerding out over the perfect cheese for calzone-making, your attachment to a subject may inspire admissions to want to learn more about it...and you.

PROMPT #2: Some students have a background, identity, interest, or talent that is so meaningful they believe their application would be incomplete without it. If this sounds like you, then please share your story. [Do not cover information that we can find in your resume i.e. don't share your 4-H story here, we are looking for an essay that's about "who you are."

The Common App's Prompt #1 is the Old Faithful of essay questions. It offers all the flexibility an applicant could ask for from a prompt, with just enough direction to get those creative fountains flowing. Focus on the key words "background," "identity," "interest," and "talent" and use them as launch points for your brainstorming. What about your history, personality, hobbies, or accomplishments might be worth highlighting for an admissions officer? It can be something as small as seeing an episode of a television show (are you living life in the Upside Down?) or as large as the struggle of moving to a foreign country (especially if you had to leave behind grandma's cooking). The most important thing to consider for this prompt is that your subject and/or perspective is dynamic and specific to you and who you are and no one else.

Some questions to ask yourself as you brainstorm:

- What about my history or background sets me apart from my peers?

- How do I define myself? How do the people who are closest to me define me?
- What have I achieved that has been integral in molding my character and ambitions?
- What, in my seventeen years on this earth, has helped shape the person I am today?

And some examples to consider:

- Has your family's love of food and your resultant adventurous tastes and culinary curiosity allowed you to connect with cultures from around the world?
- Does your crazy, dyed-blue hair define you?
- Did going to a Picasso exhibit inspire you to start an art collection that has since expanded beyond the borders of your bedroom?
- Have your yearly trips to see your extended family in China revealed something to you about your parents' ability to overcome challenges and the work ethic you have absorbed as a result?
- What are the challenges and rewards of having same-sex parents? Or of being raised by your siblings? Or of being part of a family made up of stepsisters and stepbrothers?

Which Essay Prompt Should You Choose?

You should choose the essay prompt that best allows you to tell the readers something about you that they won't get from your high school transcript, test scores or a resume. Note that these are all "touchy-feely" topics, not questions about your SAT scores or where you placed in the Math Olympics.

This type of reflection can be difficult (the hardest topic to write about is usually you!), but just know that college admissions officers aren't perfect, they know you're not perfect, and you're frankly more interesting when you show something other than how perfect you are. It's okay to reveal a weakness or a fear, or to share something that seems silly, as long as it helps admissions officers feel like they got to know you better and it makes it easier for them to imagine you walking around their campus a year or two from now. Being real is better than simply being impressive.

Essay Word Limits

You can submit only one essay, and it must be no more than 650 words. You don't need to use all 650 words... "650 words is your limit, not your goal." If you can tell your story in an impactful way in just 400 words, then great. Note that there is a minimum word limit: 250 words so, don't cut yourself too short.

Essay Instructions for the AIRE Process

Submit your essay on a separate piece of paper using the following formatting requirements.

- Type your paper on a computer and print it out on standard, white 8.5 x 11-inch paper.
- Create a header that numbers all pages consecutively in the upper right-hand corner.
- Double-space the text of your paper, and use a legible font (e.g. Times New Roman). Whatever font you choose, MLA recommends that the regular and italics type styles contrast enough that they are recognizable one from another.
- The font size should be 12 pt.
- Leave only one space after periods or other punctuation marks.
- Set the margins of your document to 1 inch on all sides.
- In the upper left-hand corner of the first page, list your name, your county, and the year.
- The selected prompt (essay question) should be copied and pasted below your demographic information.
- Give your essay a title. Double space between the title and the first line of the text.
- Essay's should be no more than 650 words and no less than 250.

Use the "Essay Brainstorming Worksheet" to help you get started and gain comfort in writing personal essays. Be creative. Be yourself. Don't forget to give your essay a title, and proofread (ask a friend, parent or teacher to proofread your essay for content and grammar).

Essay Brainstorming Worksheet

Essays are generally about one thing. You! Most essay questions are designed for one reason "to tell the reader about you." Here's a simple brainstorming worksheet that you can use to prepare for writing essays. You'll discover your strengths and weakness as you move through the topics.

1. Ask a few family members or friends to describe you. Use adjectives or personality traits.

2. List at least three to five things you feel knowledgeable about and that you could give a speech or presentation on.

3. What five people have influenced you the most and why?

4. What is your favorite book or movie, and why?

5. In chronological order, what are the five most important / memorable events in the story of your life?

6. What is favorite quote? Write it down and explain why it's meaningful to you.

7. Write an "Opening Sentence:" Write a compelling opening sentence. Ask yourself, "Does it distinguish me from others I know?"

2018

Prompt #*10: "Share with the reader a page out of your autobiography."

Wisdom: page 217 of my autobiography (title of the essay)

The image was one of kindness, warmth, and love. The silver lines of her hair shimmered in the sunlight, and the pale wrinkled cheeks smoother when she smiled. I sat there beaming at her. She sat there smiling at me. Life was simple.

"Beep, Beep, Beep" the machine interrupted. It commanded my attention. Sitting at the side of the bed, my eyes became alert once more, glancing at my grandmother. "Why did this have to happen now? She was recovering from lung cancer. Now, hepatitis too?"

Glancing at her hands made me reminisce. Hands that had helped me to reach the ice cream sandwiches my tiny fingers couldn't quite grasp. Hands that had knitted my doll's clothes, my baby blanket, my bright tri-colored scarves. Hands that had come together in prayer at my grandfather's funeral. How many times had I held those hands? I saw the ring in her hand. I remembered the scene earlier, when she had tried to give me the ring, telling me to take it before she passed away. At that time I could see the frightened child in her. She was not ready.

I had been so busy over the years placing the urgent over the important. I thought of all those letters unwritten, phone calls unmade, and visits forgotten, while I was stressing about tennis matches, homework, and friends. Everything was so trivial.

Looking at her face, I saw the resemblance to my own mother. Imagine the hurt my mom must be going through. Losing a mother is one of the greatest pains in the world, a knife wound to the heart. I remember the stories of my mother as a child, always asking the unanswerable question and dreaming to be the successful professional. Those were similar stories I had also heard about myself. How I longed to hear another story. Reaching out my hand to touch her forehead, I saw her eyelids flutter open, revealing mocha coffee colored eyes that held warmth, sprinkled with sweet love. "Still sharp," I thought to myself.

"We were wrong," the doctor said. All three came into the room to apologize, too happy to be ashamed. "The results turned out to be negative. You don't have . . ." The man's voice was interrupted by clapping. My grandmother sat smiling like a young puppy.

Functional Resume

A functional resume focuses on your skills and experiences, rather than on your chronological 4-H History. It is used most often by youth who are involved in a variety of 4-H programs, youth who have less than five years of 4-H experiences, or youth who wish to focus on their experiences and skills vs. leadership positions and previous accomplishments.

I. Header: Name, address, email address, phone number

II. Professional Statement: This is a short statement describing your career aspirations (including college / work plans). OR

AIRE Summary Statement: This is a short statement that describes your purpose for applying (state what trip you are applying for and what subject area). You can briefly mention your 4-H career highlights, including past roles and your strongest skills.

III. Education: This contains middle school / high school or college information, expected date of graduation and course of study. Include academic honors.

IV. 4-H Project Experience: For each project or activity, format it after the following example and include:

- Amount of time you were involved,
- extent and diversity of knowledge and skills,
- extent and level of responsibilities, personal growth,
- how you extended your knowledge into your community
- size, scope of project,
- reflection of competency,

V. 4-H Citizenship & Leadership Experience: In this section, provide information about 4-H related activities in the areas of citizenship and leadership.

VI. Community Service, Citizenship & Leadership Experience: Organizations:

In this section, provide information about activities within 4-H and non 4-H in the areas of community service. Format it after the following example and include: the duration and extent of your involvement,

- your roles and responsibilities, the size and scope of your effort,
- time spent, impact and resources committed, and what you accomplished individually or as a team.

Chronological Resume

A chronological resume starts by listing your 4-H history, with the most recent position listed first. Your leadership positions are listed in reverse chronological order with your current, or most recent position, first. This type of resume works well for youth with a strong, solid 4-H history.

I. Header: Name, address, email address, phone number

II. Professional Statement: This is a short statement describing your career aspirations (including college / work plans). OR

AIRE Summary Statement: This is a short statement that describes your purpose for applying (state what trip you are applying for and what subject area). You can briefly mention your 4-H career highlights, including past roles and your strongest skills.

III. 4-H Project Experience: Begin with your most recent major 4-H accomplishments and continue backward to report your 4-H history. List and explain accomplishments (briefly) including dates and level (county, district, state, etc.).

- Try to begin each bulleted sentence with an action word.
- Write about your experience and skills to aim toward the accomplishment.
- Provide the most information about your most recent accomplishment. For example: write a brief description consisting of a few sentences followed by a short list of bulleted items.
- Show growth and progress with responsibilities.
- Stress achievements and accomplishments.

IV. Education: This contains middle school / high school or college information, expected date of graduation and course of study. Include academic honors.

V. 4-H Citizenship & Leadership Experience: In this section, provide information about 4-H related activities in the areas of citizenship and leadership.

VI. Community Service, Citizenship & Leadership Experience: In this section, provide information about activities you've been involved within 4-H and non-4-H in the areas of community service. Format it after the following example and include: the duration and extent of your involvement,

- your roles and responsibilities, the size and scope of your effort,
- time spent, impact and resources committed, and what you accomplished individually or as a team.

Combination Resume

A combination resume lists your skills and experience first. Your 4-H history is listed next. With this type of resume you can highlight the skills you have that are relevant to the 4-H trip you are applying for, and also provide the chronological 4-H history reviewers prefer.

- I. Header: Name, address, email address, phone number
- II. Professional Statement: This is a short statement describing your career aspirations (including college / work plans). OR

AIRE Summary Statement: This is a short statement that describes your purpose for applying (state what trip you are applying for and what subject area). You can briefly mention your 4-H career highlights, including past roles and your strongest skills.
- III. Summary of Qualifications: Statement that describes your expertise, leadership abilities, and skill set. The summary should give the reviewer an idea of who you are, except it allows you to focus more on your 4-H experience than on your goals. You can briefly mention your 4-H career highlights, including past roles and your strongest skills.
- IV. Accomplishments: Begin with your most recent major 4-H accomplishments and continue backward to report your successes in 4-H, school, work and / or volunteer service.
- V. 4-H Experience: In bulleted format outline your 4-H experiences, starting with the most recent and significant.
- VI. Education: This contains middle school / high school or college information, expected date of graduation and course of study. Include academic honors.
- VII. 4-H Community Service, Citizenship & Leadership Experience: In this section, provide information about 4-H and non-4-H related activities in the areas of community service, citizenship and leadership.

15 College Interview Questions You Should Know

1. What do you consider your greatest strengths and weaknesses?
2. How do you handle criticism?
3. How do you plan to achieve your career goals?
4. What defines you?
5. What is your proudest achievement?
6. Why do you want to attend our college / take part in our program / work here, etc.?
7. How did you spend last summer?
8. What's the most difficult situation you've faced?
9. If you could change one thing about your high school, what would it be?
10. How do you respond to academic demands and pressure?
11. Which authors, books or articles have had a profound impact on you?
12. If you could take a year off, what would you do and why?

13. How would your friends describe you?
14. What has been your most challenging leadership experience?
15. What do you plan to major in and why?

15 College Interview Questions You Should Ask Your Interviewer

1. What are the most popular majors / colleges on campus?
2. How does the advising system work?
3. What are the students here like?
4. How are roommates matched?
5. How many students in last year's freshman class returned for their sophomore year?
6. What is the relationship between those who belong to the Greek system and those who don't?
7. What are some of the issues that concern students on campus? How are these issues being resolved?

13. What do alumni say about the school?
14. What do current students like the most about school?
15. What type of crime (criminal activity) has taken place on campus the last year years?

College Interview Mistakes

1. Be Late. Admissions people are busy. Alumni interviewers are probably taking time out of their full-time jobs to meet with you. Lateness disrupts schedules and shows irresponsibility on your part. If you can't avoid being late – call and let the interview know of your situation and ask to either reschedule or push your interview time back to a comfortable time.
2. Under dress. Business casual is your safest bet, but the main thing is to look neat and put-together. You'll look like you don't care if you show up wearing ripped jeans or and a vintage t-shirt.
3. Talk to Little. Your interviewer wants to get to know you. If you answer every question with a "yes," "no," or a grunt, you're not impressing anyone, and you're not demonstrating that you can contribute to the intellectual life of the campus. On the flip side – don't be a babbling brook – answer the questions and be yourself but don't dominate the conversation.
4. Chew Gum. It's distracting and annoying.
5. Bring your parents. The interviewer wants to get to know you, not your parents. Also, it's hard to look like you're mature enough for college if Dad is asking all the questions for you.
6. Lie. This should be obvious, but some students do get themselves in trouble by fabricating half-truths or exaggerating during the interview. Remember they have SEEN your grades and your test scores as well as your reference letters.
7. Fail to research the college. If you ask questions that could easily be answered by the college's website, you'll send the message that you don't care enough about the school to do a little research. Ask questions that show you know the place: "I'm interested in your Honors Program; could you tell me more about it?"
8. Be rude. Good manners go a long way. Shake hands. Address your interviewer by name. Say "thank you." Introduce your parents if they are in the waiting area. Say "thank you" again. Send a handwritten thank you note.

Format for the AIRE Interview

The one-on-one interview is designed to strengthen the applicant's interview skills, and for the selection committee to get to know individual applicant's. Each applicant will have approximately 10 -12 minutes with the selection committee. The selection committee will focus on getting to know as much information about each candidate as possible. Applicants should be prepared to share information about their 4-H experiences, high school and community experiences, family, career goals, educational plans, and personal beliefs.

Interview Process

- Applicant enters room, introduces him/herself to the interview team and sits in the chair. Each applicant will make a one (1) minute for an opening statement about him/herself.
- Committee members will begin the interview process immediately following the applicants opening statement.
- The selection committee will ask questions from the list below (Critical Thinking, Cause/Effect, Behavioral & General 4-H) as well as, questions that arise from the interview process itself.
- Each applicant will be given the opportunity to make closing remarks and to thank the committee for their time.

Making an Opening Statement

- Briefly, tell us about yourself.
 - Include things like: Who are you? What are you passionate about? Why you chose to in 4-H. How has 4-H impacted your life? What national trip you're interested in and why?

Making a Closing Statement

- Wrap-up and/or follow-up on any questions that you feel need a final concluding remark (re: your time with the interview team).
 - Thank the interview team for their time and attention.

AIRE Interview Question Pool

Critical Thinking

1. Currently, 32% of NC public school students drop out of high school. What do you think should be done by administrators, parents and communities to reduce this alarming number?
2. Our society has become much more conscience of the food we eat from both a safety and nutritional perspective. Whose responsibility is it to protect the US food supply and how far should we go with this protection?
3. NC is experiencing a teacher shortage. Why is this a problem and what must we do to attract and retain quality individuals to teach?
4. What can the school system do to prevent students from bringing weapons to school aside from using metal detectors?
5. What are your goals in life? (Career, Personal, etc)
6. The Governor has chosen you to accompany her to the National Governor's conference to speak on concerns of the youth in our nation. What concerns would you share?
7. If chosen to go on a volunteer mission to another country, what country would you choose and why? What volunteer work would you do based on the needs of the country?
8. What are your strengths and weakness'?
9. What is favorite quote? Explain why it's meaningful to you.
10. What do you expect to be doing in five years?
11. Which is more important: creativity or efficiency? Why?

Cause/Effect

1. Tell me about a time in your life when you had to make a tough decision? What was the situation and how did you handle it?
2. Give me an example of a time when you had to show personal integrity?
3. Describe your work ethic.
4. Give me an example of a time when you used your fact-finding skills to solve a problem.

Behavioral

1. What form of punishment would you recommend for students with behavior problems in school?
2. If you could take a year off, what would you do and why?
3. How are you involved in your community?
4. Tell me about a time when you were forced to make an unpopular decision.

General 4-H Questions

How can you use your 4-H experience to help encourage more youth to become citizen leaders in their communities?

1. Share one of your most memorable 4-H experiences. What made it memorable?
2. Why should we (judges) select you for one of these National trips? And, if you are selected to attend, how do you plan to use the knowledge you gained in your county, district, and state?
3. Has your 4-H experience had an impact on your life? Be specific.
4. You have been awarded a million dollar grant to spend on 4-H youth programs, how would you spend this money?
5. What type of 4-H involvement do you plan for the coming year?
6. Give us an example of a time when you set a goal in 4-H and were able to meet or achieve it.
7. Which "H" (Head, Heart, Hands, Health) has had the most significant impact on your life and why?
